The headline published over a story about the Wayne Charter Committee and the city of Wayne was incorrect in the Thursday edition of the Wayne Eagle.

The headline should have read: The city and charter committee settle issue in court. We regret the error.

Public meeting set for noise debate

The Federal Aviation Administration will stage a public information meeting at 4 p.m. April 18 to present the Environmental Assessment of a proposed 180-day test of air-traffic control noise-abatement procedures at Metropolitan Detroit Airport. FAA officials will present the information at the Radisson Hotel, 8000 Merriman Road, in Romulus.

Big band sound featured at dance

The Palace Theater Co. is inviting Wayne residents to the April 27 Spring Rhapsody Dinner Dance.

Featured entertainment includes the big band sound of The Southfield Velve-tones. The event will be staged 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the Wayne Community Center, 4635 Howe Road. Cost is $25 per person. Reservations must be made in advance by calling 728-SHOW or 525-2886.

Proceeds will go toward the restoration of the Palace Theater of Wayne.

'Consumers beware' topic of conference

Wayne residents interested in learning how to identify a good deal should attend Consumer Awareness Day at 1 p.m. April 24 at the Wayne Community Center.

Joe Gagnon, nationally known talk show personality, will be presenting information to individuals on how to obtain proper service and how to be more aware of how to spend money wisely.

Residents can register for the event by calling 721-7400. Cost is $1. The event is sponsored by Wayne Senior Services, Wayne-Westland Soroptimists, The Senior Alliance, The Office of Services to the Aging and The Older Michigani-ans Act.

2nd set of Wayne recall petitions await approval

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Petitions demanding the recall of Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton and five councilmembers were filed last Thursday by the Wayne Charter Committee to Wayne County Clerk James R. Kil-leen.

This marks the second recall attempt by the Charter Committee within one year. This batch of recall petitions, however, contain specific language directed toward Norton and councilmembers Albert Damitio, Robert Beeny, Thomas Weyand, Edwin Rowe and Thomas Kelly.

In order for the petitions to be stamped with the county clerk's approval, they must contain at least 1,094 valid signatures from Wayne registered voters, according to Edward A. Carey, director of Wayne County Elections.

"We're beginning to review the petitions at this time," Carey said. "We have seven days to determine if there are enough signatures."

Copies of the petitions will then be sent to Wayne City Clerk Bill Richards, who will have 15 days, by law, to examine the signatures to ensure those who signed are registered voters within the city.

"Once I determine whether there are enough valid signatures, I return the petitions back to the county," Richards said. "Then, there is an eight-day challenge period. The named elected official can challenge the opinions on the petitions such as the method of distribution of the petitions or whether the signatures are from certified registered voters."

The six complaints listed on the petitions include:

- Violating the Open Meetings Act by failing to require the city planning commission to keep minutes for its meetings.

- Approving the loan agreement with The Associated Newspapers Inc. seven years after the fact.

- Failing to hire and retain a city manager that meets the qualifications required by the City Charter.

- Approving a $600,000 city contract for creation of wetlands on city-owned property in Romulus.

- Violating the City Charter by accepting payments for lease of office space from the independent city auditors.

Once the signatures are given the final stamp of approval from city and county officials, Richards said it will be up to the county clerk to make a recommendation to the Wayne County Election Scheduling Committee to set up a date for the special recall election.

Mayor names school committee

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Mayor Robert Thomas has vowed to work with Wayne-Westland school officials to find a solution to the problems which currently plague the school district.

"Though I do not believe this is my responsibility, I am willing to make a sincere effort to help," Thomas said in a letter to Dennis O'Neill, superintendent of the Wayne-Westland Community School District.

Thomas announced his offer of help Thursday night during a town hall meeting. His proposed plan, he said, will help school officials translate the present financial problems of the district to citizens in the community.

"After giving much thought to the situation as it stands now, I am willing to appoint a Blue Ribbon School Committee made up of people from all segments of the community," Thomas said. "In order to have the proper input in making viable recommendations to help solve the crisis facing our schools, it is necessary that this committee be made up of people on both sides of the fence."

O'Neill said Friday afternoon that he welcomes all the support the district can drum up. "Any effort is worth our time," he said. "If he's willing to help, we'll take whatever help we can get."

School officials have repeatedly emphasized that the schools are the cornerstone of the community and the responsibility of all citizens who reside within the district.

"He realizes it's not just a school problem but the problem of the entire community," O'Neill said.

Thomas and O'Neill are scheduled to meet Monday morning to discuss the committee.

The committee includes the following people: Fred Hagelthorn, Bill Reece, union president for the Wayne-Westland Education Association, Woody London, associate superintendent of finance for the school district, Norman Stockmeyer, David Morant, chairperson of the Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education (WWCE), Laurel Raisanan, trustee for the WWCE, Tim McCurley, finance director for the city, Diane Klinebriel, controller for the city, school board members Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, Sharon Scott and Leonard Posey, two chamber of commerce representatives, Westland city councilmembers Tho-

Noted businessman dies at age 90

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Better known as the founder of Keller and Stein Florist, Howard G. Stein of Wayne died Wednesday.

Mr. Stein, 91, was one of the original founders of the Wayne Kiwanis. He dedicated more than 65 years of service to the organization.

"Howard was one of the last founding members still living," said Ron Mason, a Kiwanis member who knew Stein for more than 20 years. "He was very generous, compassionate and understanding to the community."

Mr. Stein was also a Wayne City Councilmember.

Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton described Mr. Stein as an outstanding community leader.

"I've known Howard for as long as I can remember, and I'm not getting any younger," Norton said. "He was a great businessman, who generated a tremendous amount of respect as a leader."

Norton also remembered another side of the popular Wayne resident.

"He loved to dance," he said. "He and his wife were two of the most charming people I have ever met. They loved to laugh and sing, and just have a really good time."

Mr. Stein opened his florist shop in 1922, and remained active in the business until 1984.

"He was the premier florist in western Wayne County," Norton said.

Beside active participation in local organizations and government, Mr. Stein was also a founder of Wayne Bank, and he served on the board for more than 22 years.

After he retired, Mr. Stein and his wife, Irene, spent most of their time traveling.

Funeral services for Mr. Stein were staged Saturday at Lents Funeral Home in Wayne. The service was officiated by the Rev. Robert Millar.

Mr. Stein is survived by his wife, three children: Audrey Baber, Howard (Bud) and Peter; 10 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Local residents continue turning on cable television

New cable generation

Among the key facts concerning the cable television industry:

- The number of cable television homes in 1990 grew to 53,903,630, representing 58.6 percent of all United States television homes. This is up 3 percent from 1989.

- Regional network ad revenue has increased by more than $500 million since 1989, a 26-percent increase. Ad revenues have been increasing at 44 percent per year since 1985.

- In 1990, there were 9,575 cable systems in operation, up from 9,050 in 1989.

By THEODORE G. COUTILISH
ANP News Editor

Despite taking its share of lumps in the past, the cable industry is finally getting some pats on the back.

A combination of daring war coverage by Cable News Network and expanded sports and movie coverage by several of its major networks has translated into thousands of new subscribers to the latest national pastime.

In light of these recent milestones, it only seems fitting cable companies across the country are celebrating National Cable Month in April. "People have known about cable television for awhile now, but we have seen a surge in new subscribers since January and some of that is due, in part, to the reputation CNN earned during the war," said Mike Reynolds, general manager of Cablevision Industries, which services cable television to Wayne and Dearborn. "CNN did a great job in its war coverage and that served as an example of what cable can do."

Cable television has come a long way since its inception.

In Wayne, Teleprompter built the current system in 1982. The system was then sold to Group W Cable in 1983, and CVI acquired it in 1986.

During that time, cable television subscribers have grown to 4,150 or 63 percent of all Wayne homes. That's slightly above the national average of 58 percent.

In Westland, Continental Cablevision of Michigan has hooked up to 68.4 percent of the households, serving 22,664 customers. That's not bad, considering the system was installed in late 1984.

But with customer increases has come rate increases. In 1982, basic cable service was around $9 per month for 35 channels. Today, CVI charges $18.90 for 47 channels in its basic service.

Broken down, CVI customers are paying 15 cents more per channel than they did in 1982. Reasons: Increase in premium cable channels, technological improvements, larger maintenance costs and exclusive programming on such networks as USA and WTBS not available to customers in 1982.

"We're right in the middle of the pack in this area as far as pricing is concerned," Reynolds said. "The national average is about $21 per month for basic, but that only includes 36 channels. We think we provide a good entertainment value for the buck."

Despite the national and local growth in subscribers, the cable industry has continued to have problems. Common complaints among subscribers include too many cable outages, overrun movies and skyrocketing cable fees.

Making matters worse, current telecommunication regulation in the state legislature, if approved, could cut into profits and shake what is otherwise a healthy industry, according to local cable operators.

"This regulation will allow entry by regional bell operator companies into our business under the guise of competition," said Kay'elen Perry, general manager of Continental. "What this really does is quite the opposite. It shows the bell utilities as the monopolies they really are. The customer will get hurt all the way around."

victim probably knew the person who killed her."

Webb said that there were no signs of forced entry into the apartment, and little sign of a struggle. Also, apparently nothing was missing from the victim's apartment, ruling out robbery as a motive for the slaying.

"We feel that the victim knew her attacker. She may have let her attacker into her apartment, apparently felt comfortable around him until he got the drop on her. From the physical evidence in the apartment, there were no real signs of a confrontation."

mas Artley and Charles Pickering, state representative to be named, Wayne city councilmember Thomas Kelly and Bill Brown.

At a Westland Chamber of Commerce meeting staged earlier this year, Thomas told those in attendance that he would not support any millage increase proposed by district officials, and stated poor management of funds as one of the reasons.

Since then, citizen groups for and against the mayor have appeared at city council meetings, town hall meetings and school board meetings to praise and condemn the mayor.

Bruce, a 5-foot-6, 133-pound brunette was employed at a 7-11 convenience store, located on Venoy Road in Westland at the time of her death.

According to police reports, the night of her murder, the victim was driven to her apartment by the manager of the store.

The manager and the male companion were questioned but were never suspects in the case.

Bruce owned a car, but she had loaned it to her male companion who shared her apartment the night before she was killed.

"We have been unsuccessful in tracing the victim's movements from the time she returned from work until her death," Webb added. "We received only one call and that was some time later in our investigation from someone who thought she had seen the victim. But that lead didn't turn up anything."

Police also say that, because most of the apartment residents were away at work, no one had reported seeing anything suspicious at or around the apartment complex.

"Because this homicide occurred in the daytime we feel someone may have seen something that may have been insignificant at the time, but could help solve this killing," Webb said. "We need citizens' help to solve this case."

Anyone with information about this homicide should contact Lt. Kerry Webb at 721-1414.

County suffers decreasing numbers

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

The population of western Wayne County has dropped overall, but the majority of the area is expected to pick up growth by 2005.

Census Bureau officials recently released the final 1990 census population counts for Michigan to Gov. John Engler. Tabulations were based on several elements including population counts for all races, housing unit counts, unemployment rates and the average housing value.

Census officials profiled counts for the state, counties and individual communities.

In addition to Inkster, Romulus had the biggest drop in population, 7.9 percent, from 24,857 residents in 1980 to 22,897 in 1990. The reason according to Jeffrey Martell, director of community development, is lack of housing.

"We had 11 new housing starts, but it wasn't enough," Martell said. "There were also a lot of demolitions. I think a lot has to do with people wanting to live near where they work. The airport employs a lot of people, however, we don't have enough moderate housing."

Census Bureau officials remain positive about the city,

The population of western Wayne County has dropped overall, but the majority of the area is expected to pick up growth by 2005.

however, as they predicted Romulus to have a jump in population to 30,345 residents by 2005.

"We have industry still coming in," Martell said. "We also have the Metro Center and the Metro World coming. Mayor Beverly McAnally is working on getting more moderate housing in the area. We definitely are making an effort to get people to stay in the city."

Wayne only suffered about a 1.2-percent drop in population within the last decade, from 21,159 residents in 1980 to 19,899 in 1990. Census Bureau officials, however, predict Wayne will only increase to 21,223 by 2005.

That prediction is not a setback for Wayne, according to Assistant City Manager John Zech.

"Wayne does not have a lot of undeveloped land such as Canton or Westland," Zech said. "There is a nine-acre parcel on Glenwood that can be developed. Part of the downtown effort will be to build apartments and condos in the downtown district of Wayne."

One reason the population in Wayne has remained somewhat stable within the last decade is because the city is offering a variety of types of housing, Zech said.

"We have a variety of housing at various price levels," Zech said. "A person can buy a house in Wayne and get more for the dollar than in some other communities. It's great for young married people who are looking to buy their first home."

"We have very good services here in the city including police, fire, recreation and the Department of Public Works. We're close to the highways as well as the airport."

In addition to housing, Zech believes residents stay because of the small town and suburban atmosphere Wayne offers. A person can live in Wayne and not feel like a number because the city is relatively small, Zech said.

The profile on the other communities in western Wayne County is as follows:

- Belleville - Dropped 2.9 percent in population since 1980. The population is expected to increase from 3,270 in 1990 to 5,673 in 2005. About 1,725 people work in Belleville. The unemployment rate is 5 percent.
- Canton Township - Increased 17.3 percent in population since 1980. The population is expected to increase from 57,040 in 1990 to 77,243 in 2005. About 23,425 people work in Canton. The unemployment rate is 3.9 percent.
- Inkster - Dropped 12.6 percent in population since 1980. The population is expected to increase from 30,772 in 1990 to 31,479 in 2005. About 14,175 people work in Inkster. The unemployment rate is 9.7 percent.
- Westland - Increased 10 percent in population since 1980. The population is expected to increase from 84,724 in 1990 to 90,028 in 2005. About 40,400 people work in Westland. The unemployment rate is 6.1 percent.

State Senate to freeze property taxes

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With the blessings of the two state senators who serve the area, the Michigan Senate unanimously approved legislation that would freeze residential and commercial property taxes at their 1990 levels.

The Senate voted 33-0 on Thursday to approve the legislation, tossing the controversial property tax reform issue into the hands of the state House of Representatives and the governor's lap.

"I was not in Lansing when the vote was taken," said Sen.

William Faust (D-Westland), "but had I been there I would have voted for it."

Faust, who is recovering from injuries suffered in a March 6 auto accident, added: "At the present stage, we have no alternative. But the legislation gives hope, although it is certainly is not the answer and may cause hardship to some school districts and local governments because they will have to revise their budget figures."

Sen. George Hart (D-Dearborn) also voted for the proposed legislation.

"We have taken a giant first step," Hart said. "Freezing assessments is central to a realistic tax relief plan."

"And I am optimistic the bill will be successful in the House, however, I am sure there are representatives who share my concern for the impact this will have on some out-of-formula school districts."

If approved and signed by Gov. John Engler, the legislation would give immediate property tax relief to property owners.

Engler said he would support the legislation. However, the bill may encounter opposition in the House from lawmakers who represent out-of-formula school districts.

The proposed legislation would prevent local governments and school districts from collecting the increased assessments levied on the property for the year 1991 and would freeze the 1992 assessment at the 1990 level.

"I have talked to the school officials in the Plymouth-Canton district," said Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth). "They figure they would lose about $10 million over the two-year period. How are they going to make up that money? Ask for increased millage?"

Police find dead cat inside gargabe can

Westland police were somewhat relieved yet embarrassed to find a decomposed cat in a garbage can on the southeast side of the city.

Called to the address, police originally believed the body was that of a dead baby.

News people from local television channels and newspapers also rushed to the scene when news of the dead baby was announced over the police scanner.

An officer at the scene said the incident was embarrassing, but he was also relieved to learn the remains were of a dead cat, not a dead baby.

Canton man charged with weapon discharge

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

A 69-year-old Canton Township man will be charged with the reckless discharge of a weapon.

Monday, the man, who lives at the Stoney Brook Apartments at Joy Road and Interstate-275, surrendered to police after a 25-year-old Highland Park woman told police she was abducted at gunpoint by the Canton man.

Police say both returned to the man's apartment by mutual agreement. When the suspect saw the woman look through his pants pockets, he fired two shots in the air, according to officer Patrick Nemecek.

The woman accused the Canton man of sexual assault, and she was taken to Annapolis Hospital where tests were conducted, according to a police press release.

At 7:30 a.m., the man was taken into custody without incident. The woman reportedly took his wallet, according to Nemecek.

The suspect said he fired one shot into the air, and the woman fled the apartment.

If convicted, the misdemeanor carries a 90-day jail term. No further action will be taken against the man.

Doctor is satisfied with work

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Mary Mafee's work is a labor of love.

The Belleville gynecologist, who shares a practice with her husband, loves her profession and the people she treats. In turn, her patients affectionately call her "Mary" rather than Dr. Mafee.

"I'm happy to be able to relieve pain and to help people," Mafee said. "I love this area, too. I've had opportunities to practice in other communities, but I want to stay here."

Many of the couple's patients are senior citizens, for whom both physicians have a great deal of love and compassion.

As long as she can remember, Mafee has wanted to be a physician. In her home country of Persia, now Iran, she was one of only six female students at Rahlavi University and the only medical student in her class of 200.

Her excellent scholastic ability and her determination to reach her goal allowed her to overcome the pressures against the completion of her education and to graduate as one of the few female doctors in her homeland.

After graduating from medical school, she married fellow physician, Reza Mafee, and moved to the United States to fulfill their medical residency requirements. Both worked at the Ypsilanti Regional Psychiatric Hospital before establishing their joint practice in Belleville.

Dr.s Mary and Reza Mafee

She began to specialize in menstrual and menopausal disorders, family planning, infertility problems and pregnancy counseling. However, she no longer practices obstetrics because of the skyrocketing cost of malpractice insurance.

"It is very sad. I would like to deliver babies for my patients, but the insurance cost is too high. I care for them in their early months, but I must refer my patients to another physician in their fourth or fifth month of pregnancy," Mafee said.

Mafee, who is the only female gynecologist in the community, believes she can relate to her patients better than a male doctor. Her patients find it easier to talk to her about their sexual problems and discuss their menstrual or menopausal disorders.

"Because I'm a woman, they know that I understand their problems," Mafee said. "Women tell me 'I'm glad that I talked to you' after they have discussed their problems with me. It makes me feel very good to know that they have confidence in me."

On moral and religious grounds, Mafee does not perform abortions.

"I believe in prevention, rather than abortion," Mafee said, noting she favors parental involvement when young women seek birth-control information. "If a girl is 16 or younger, I insist she talk to her parents."

In addition to her duties as a physician, Mafee is the mother of four daughters, an accomplished homemaker and a gourmet cook who can prepare party fare for 50 guests following a full week of work.

She proudly revealed her oldest daughter has a master's degree in education. Another daughter is a law-school graduate, one is in a pre-law program and another is preparing for a career in education.

If there is a secret to her ability to do many things well, she said, it is her ability to get along on a few hours of sleep nightly.

Her practice with her husband, who is a cardiovascular surgeon as well as a general practitioner, allows the couple to have a unique partnership in their careers as well as in their marriage of almost three decades.

Playing soccer doesn't cost an arm and a leg

It doesn't cost an arm and a leg to play, so to speak, and you can play it anywhere.

You won't have to buy any fancy equipment and all the extras to play it.

It's a simple game, really. Just a ball. A field. And a net. It wouldn't hurt to have some players.

Although soccer - Europeans rightly call it football - has yet to catch on professionally in the United States, the sport has spread like a forest fire in the area.

Plymouth. Canton. Belleville. Westland. Livonia. Wherever you look, it's there.

Name the city, and you'll find hordes of youngsters - boys and girls - kicking up their feet (no pun intended) to get into the W column.

And, maybe win enough games to get invited to a national tournament.

Unfortunately, most Americans still prefer baseball. The sport of the ageless.

The eternal spring.

It's the old national pastime.

Y'know, apple pie and Chevrolet.

But when you talk sports with Joe Galea, it's all soccer.

In his second year as Livonia Franklin girls' soccer coach, the Malta-transplant in Livonia believes one reason for the popularity of soccer in the area youth programs and high schools is "because it really isn't too difficult a sport to play.

You don't have to be a 6-4, 240 pounder to make the team."

Soccer attracts all sizes, shapes and both sexes.

Coming off an 8-0 victory over Western Lakes rival Farmington Harrison Friday night, Galea had a lot to say about soccer and what lured him into coaching.

He volunteered his services as head coach, and athletic director George Lovich probably didn't hesitate one moment to sign him.

After all, to kids on the island of Malta, soccer to them is what baseball is to their counterparts in America.

From his first recollections some 45 years ago, charismatic Galea has been kicking soccer balls around on the narrow streets, in the school playgrounds and in the higher institutions of learning.

However, when it came time to make a living, he turned to the auto industry for a full-time job. He's employed by Ford Motor Co.

"Professional football (soccer) is in a class of its own," he says.

And so are all professional sports.

But before we dot the i, we better mention in the 8-0 Franklin victory over Harrison that sophomore Franklin goalie Karen Potemta turned in her first shutout of the young season.

Teammate Patti Shea counted three goals, while left winger Erin Craig drove home a pair. Sue Barone, Carla Strugala and Lemay Truchan each scored one.

The Patriots started the campaign last week with a 3-3 tie against Livonia Ladywood.

How good are Galea's kickers? He said he will find out Monday.

That's when Franklin clashes with Canton, the team to beat for the title this season.

Shea doesn't have any grand plans for the title this year.

But he has a young team that could be going places fast.

Perfect start

Glenn to face Salem in early season showdown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn erupted for four runs in the sixth inning to turn back Redford Union 9-6 Friday afternoon to stretch its baseball winning streak to four games.

Coach Norm Hoenes and the Rockets will place their streak on the block Monday when they travel to Plymouth Salem, also undefeated on the season, for their Western Lakes Conference opener.

"They're tough," says Hoenes, commenting on the early showdown of title hopefuls. "It should be an interesting game."

Redford Union made it interesting in their non-conference encounter with the Rockets. The Panthers rallied for five runs in the fifth to take a 6-4 lead. However, the Rockets came back with four of their own runs to seal the win.

Hoenes looked at five pitchers - Aaron Scheffer, who started and worked the first two and gave way to Jamie Bufford. Paul Heaney and Joe Decker also saw action with Chris Kirke going the last two innings and collecting the win.

Shortstop Gary Pierce chipped in with three hits and three RBIs, while Andy Gagne and Tommy Myers each checked in with two hits.

In their crossover game with Plymouth Canton, right-hander Lawrence Scheffer picked up the victory in relief of John Ward, who was removed in the third after the Chiefs scored four times off him.

Canton Coach Fred Crissey used Scott Kennedy all the way and Kennedy took the loss. He gave up a damaging grand slam homer to Scheffer in the third inning.

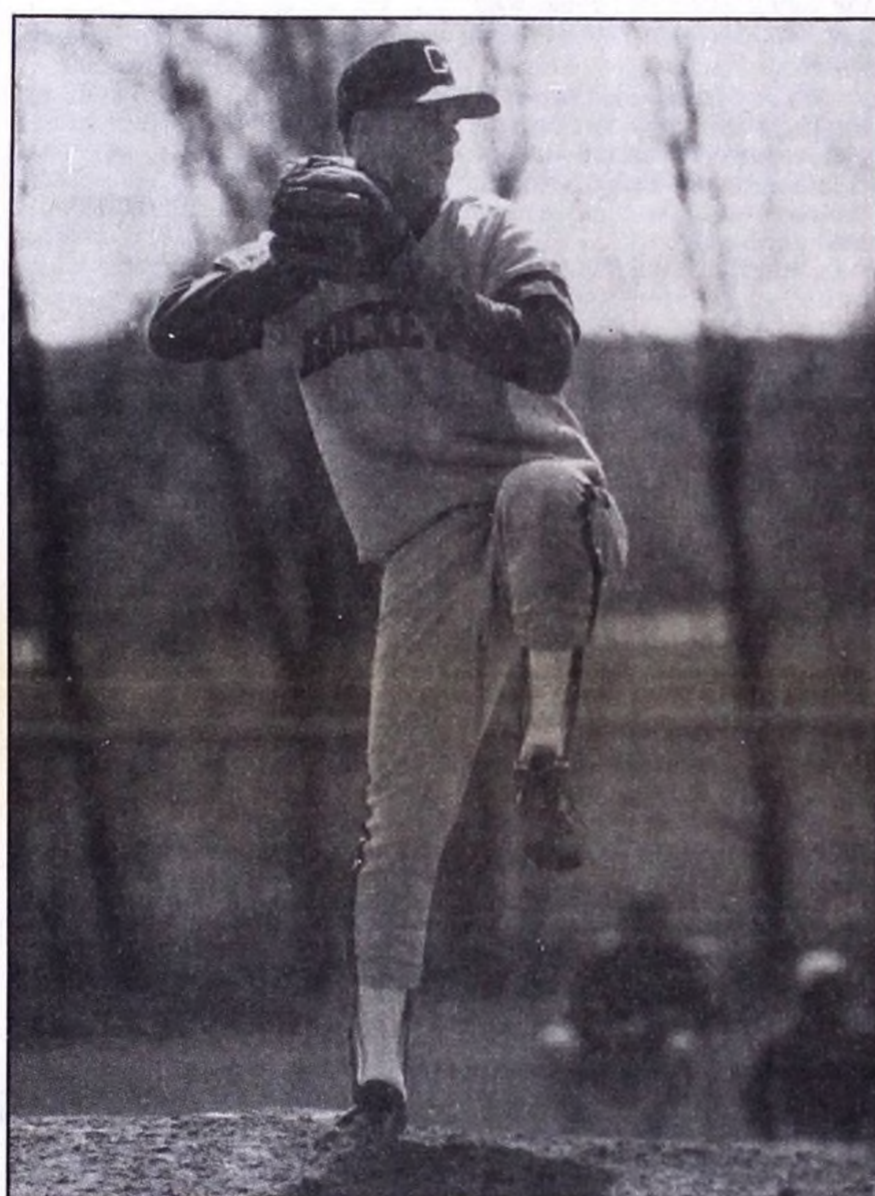

Glenn also won the Willow Run Invitational by edging the hosts 7-5 in the first round. They went eight innings in the championship round with Ypsilanti before the Rockets pulled out a 7-6 victory.

In the opening round, Scheffer again was the winner in relief of Ward. Garne accounted for two key hits and drove in a pair of runs. Scheffer helped his own cause with his first homer of the 1991 campaign. He also doubled.

Hoenes sent Aaron Scheffer to the mound in the final game, but it was Lawrence who earned the victory. Aaron yielded to Decker in the fifth but, after Decker failed to get anyone out, Lawrence was inserted and pitched the final 2 2/3 innings for the win.

The Rockets broke the deadlock in the eighth when Ward led off with a single and raced to second on Ken Tennant's bunt. Steve Fuller then drilled a run-scoring, game-winning single to finish off the Braves.

First pitch

Glenn hurler John Ward (above) has helped the Rockets get off to a 4-0 start this season, and the Westlanders will take their unbeaten record against pre-season title favorite Plymouth Salem on Monday. The Rocks will host the Western Lakes Conference opener.

Rockets are off to best start

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn shook off a determined Livonia Franklin women's track team 69-59 Thursday to earn its third straight dual meet victory of the season.

The Rockets rolled up 10 of the 16 events and swept all four relays in their conference opener. Coach John Kitchen's runners have wins over non-conference rivals Ypsilanti and Garden City.

"This is our best start," said Kitchen, who is in his fifth year as the Rockets' head coach. "I am really pleased at the early success of this team."

However, Kitchen warned that his runners must improve if they want to continue to win. They will meet a tough North Farmington team on Thursday for their second league test.

Glenn received a pair of victories each from Amy Finley and Lynette Conner. Finley captured the high jump competition (5 feet, 7 inches) and the 300-meter hurdles (52.9), while Conner placed first in the long jump (15 feet, 15 inches) and the 100-meter dash (13.7).

Melissa Husted gave the Westlanders a victory in the 200-yard dash (29.8), and Jennifer Caplis was first in the 3,200 meters (13:46.5).

The Rockets dominated the relays. They took the 3,200 meters in 11:01 with Tina Honeycutt, Rebecca Berczel, Kim Springer and Dana Nowicki; the 800-meter relay lineup included Melissa Husted, Cathy Chan, Mary Hartwig and Erica Goldston, who were clocked in 2:04.

In the 400-meter relay, Kitchen used the foursome of Melanie Cline, JoAnna Salem, Tamara Murphy and Lynette Conner, who turned in a 56.19. They wrapped up the meet with a victory in the 1,600 meters with Nowicki, Honeycutt, Finley and Berczel, who combined for a 4:34.73.

Last relay lifts Belleville to victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With leadoff runner Keith Julien giving his teammates a substantial lead, the Belleville Tigers' mile relay team breezed past Wyandotte in the final event of their Wolverine 'A' Conference track opener.

The Tigers' victory in the final event was the difference in a close 65.5 to 62.5 decision over the Bruins.

"The last relay did it for us," Belleville Coach Dave Medley said. "It was close all the way until that decisive event."

Julien teamed up with Tony Maciejewski, Gary Knowlton and James Craig to tour the distance in 3:50 flat for the victory.

The Tigers garnered eight other first places, two each by Al Barnett and Lee Bradford. Barnett won the discuss with a 108-foot toss and he also had the best effort in the shot put (47 feet, 10 inches). Bradford cleared 5 feet, 8 inches to claim the high jump event and polished off the high hurdles in 15.7.

Sprinter Andre Edwards gave the Tigers the 100-yard dash with a 10.2 finish, and Julien covered the quarter mile in 56.5 for another Belleville win. Craig was the top 330 hurdler (46.4).

"The last relay did it for us. It was close all the way until that decisive event."

Belleville also captured the 2-mile relay with a lineup consisting of Julien, Troy Adams, Gary Knowlton and Jason Kidwell, who were clocked in 9:04.

Belleville, always one of the frontrunners in the Wolverine 'A' Conference, should figure in the title pack again this year. But it will be Monroe and Wayne to beat for the championship, Medley says.

"I don't know how much damage the Pay-to-Play has caused Wayne," Medley said, "but they always have a fine group of athletes over there. Monroe is the defending champion, and they have to be considered the team to beat."

Belleville will be on the road Thursday when the Tigers take on Lincoln Park.

A first Local golfer cards ace

The weather may not have been perfect and the greens a bit wet in the wake of recent storms.

But who cares?

Not Terry Light of Belleville, that's for sure. Light was overjoyed, he said, after he bagged a hole-in-one during the young season.

Using a nine iron, Light aced the 150-yard, par 3 at Shady Hollow Golf Course in Romulus.

"I've never shot a hole-in-one before," said the 45-year-old layed-off tool-and-die maker. "I'm really happy. Maybe my luck is about to change."

Light said he has been golfing regularly for the past three years.

Eagles land opening day victory over Ypsilanti

By TERRY LYNCH
ANP Special Writer

The Eagles have landed.

Although their 7-3 victory over Ypsilanti Lincoln on Thursday night may not have been a pretty one, the Romulus Eagles walked away winners.

The Eagles scratched and clawed for the runs they needed to back up the strong pitching performance of senior Rich Evans.

Evans, a right-hander, went the distance for the win, giving up just three earned runs on four hits. He also struck out 10 and walked 10.

Evans helped his own cause by going 2 for 3 at the plate, scoring twice along the way.

Much of the Eagles offense came from senior third baseman Brian Ellison, despite the fact he did not register an official trip to the plate. Ellison walked twice, scored three times, drove in a run and stole two bases.

"Hey, I like those kinds of numbers," Coach Don Foley said of Ellison's 0-for-0 batting performance.

The Railsplitters used two pitchers in the game. Senior right-hander Marty Griffin worked 5 1/3 innings, gave up five runs and took the loss. Reliever Patrick Warren, a senior right-hander, finished up.

The Eagles began to work quickly, tagging Griffin for two runs in the first inning.

Their big inning was in the third. Evans was safe on an error, and stole second. Ellison walked. Junior first-baseman Tim Dufore then singled in Evans. Ed Tank, the All-District shortstop turned catcher, sacrificed the runners along. Ellison trotted home on a wild pitch and Dufore scored on a ground out by junior center fielder Mark Harden.

Dufore and Tank each collected two RBIs on the day.

The Eagles added one in the fifth when Ellison walked, stole second and was doubled in by Tank.

They finished with one in the sixth when junior right fielder Eric Ward walked, stole second when David Sanborn, a junior second baseman, was safe on an error by the Ypsilanti left fielder. Evans followed with an infield single, and Ellison capped his day by laying down a sacrifice squeeze bunt.

Before the season, Foley said the question mark on his team would be hitting consistency. A game like this can go a long way in showing a team that putting the ball in play can result in runs and wins.

The Eagles were scheduled to play at Taylor Truman Friday to make up the rained-out opener from Tuesday.

On Saturday morning, the Eagles were set to host Taylor Center.

Rotary seeks support for garage sale

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

It's that time of the year to clean the closets, sweep the garage and throw out all the unwanted items in good condition or never worn or used.

The Wayne Rotary Club is in need of resident donations for its 1991 Annual Garage Sale. Rotary Club members will take just about anything, except clothes, according to Garage Sale Chairman Don Smith.

"The sale will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 4," Smith said. "We're looking for furniture, toys, books, tools, bikes... anything but clothes. We've been having the garage sale for more than five years now."

Individuals with items to donate should contact Jack Jordan at 422-0460 or Smith, 595-7220.

The items are tax-deductible. The event will be staged at the Wayne Community Center on Howe Road.

Last year the Rotary Club collected more than $1,000. Proceeds from the garage sale are used for community improvements which include putting equipment in Rotary Park, staging the annual get-together at Rotary Park, donating scholarships to Wayne Memorial High School and John Glenn High School and supporting the YMCA, the Girl Scouts of America, the Boys Club and the polio fund.

"We donate about $9,000 in scholarships each year," Smith said. "We're hoping this garage sale will be the very best one we've ever had."

Mistreatment creates vicious animals, not nature

The recent Pit Bull and Rottweiler attacks on two children have stabbed us all in the stomach. When are dog owners going to realize the responsibility they take on when they purchase a dog? How many more innocent children or adults have to be hurt before something positive can be done to educate the public on proper handling of animals?

I've had people call me about obedience training for a five-week-old puppy. Yes, I said five weeks old. No reputable breeder sells anyone a puppy that young. Conscientious breeders sell only puppies eight weeks or older, and they are very careful who they sell to. They have a dedication to perfecting the breed of dog they favor, and they are very cautious who takes one of the puppies home. They should be.

Every single Pit Bull (or any breed) attack has been done by a dog chained in the yard. The owners always defend the dog's actions by saying how good it was around the family. The dog was friendly to the family because those were the only humans he had an opportunity to be around. They were the ones he thought he could trust. He was not socialized properly. He became a fear biter. He became the dog whose picture ended up on the front page of the newspaper after biting someone.

I'm certain you've all be told how so-and-so always kept their dog in the yard because the dog "liked" being outside. If there was no fence then the dog was tied to a tie-out chain. Of course, there may have been a dog house or shelter of some kind.

Then there's the dog who ended up being chained somewhere in the yard or left to the entire yard because "he messes up the house," "he sheds too much," "he chews up everything in sight," "he's obnoxious, jumping and wild and stupid," so there was no alternative. The dog was put outside. Easier than doing something about his behavior. Cheaper, too. But safer? Not on your life.

I've cautioned hundreds of disbelieving people on the danger of rough-housing, wrestling, tug-of-war and isolation of the family dog. More often than not I hear in their voices that they think I'm just plain "nuts". While describing their "problem dog" and asking for my advice, they deny doing any of the above and blame the breeder, the breed of dog or the pet store for the dog's behavior. If I suggest investing a small amount of money for obedience training, the caller ends the conversation abruptly. His dog is "not worth the time or money" it would take to correct the problems he's calling about in the first place.

Remember how I've always stated there are no bad dogs, only bad owners. I mean misinformed, misled, uneducated in animal behavior. That's why there are training schools in existence. Obedience training is everywhere. The courses vary along with the price. People can phone around and find the school that suits them. It's a beginning to an end of dog bites.

Dogs isolated to the back yard or side of the house, or near the garage, or anywhere alone, end up being fear-biting dogs. The term describes a dog not socialized. The dog's world is that perimeter of chain length. He doesn't know who is friend or who is foe. Being chained, he is a prisoner and reacts like one. He's like a caged animal and we've all seen the lions and tigers in their cages. Not too many of us would approach them.

Children are the first ones hurt when it comes to animal bites.

That's because they are small, non-threatening and yet the first to try to hug a dog around the neck. If you were chained or isolated for months, years or more, and some strange person came at you and grabbed you around the neck what would you do? Our natural instinct would be to pull away, perhaps push the person away and cower with uncertainty. A dog can't do this. They bite instead.

What happened to the little girl and the boy this past week is horrendous. Who is at fault here? The child can't be held accountable for loving dogs. The dog can't be held accountable for being scared. Dogs must be kept inside the house, unless properly supervised when outdoors. Dogs must never be chained outside, or anywhere. Dogs must be taken to obedience training in order to be socialized to become good members of society.

It does not matter which breed of dog you have. A poodle can inflict as much facial damage as a Pit Bull. A child's face is too precious. Any face or any person is too valuable to have injury done to it.

If you are a dog owner, consider the consequences of an unruly, disobedient dog. If you keep your dog in the yard or chained up, the next dog bite may be the one you will have to explain.

Mother of year is sought

The Associated Newspapers is looking for the best Mom in western Wayne County.

Nominations are now being accepted for the 1991 Mother of the Year competitions.

To be eligible, the woman must be a resident of Belleville, Canton Township, Inkster, Romulus, Wayne, Westland, Van Buren or Sumpter townships.

The winner will be featured on the cover of our Suburban Living magazine Sunday, May 12 -- Mother's Day. Three runners-up will also be selected, and will be included in the article.

Prizes will be presented to all four winners just in time for Mother's Day.

If you think your Mom is tops, send us a letter telling us why. The letter should include basic information about the woman, as well as the writer's reasons for nominating her. Anecdotes about your Mom and information about her community involvement will be noted by the judges.

Be sure to include your Mom's address and telephone number (day and evening).

All nominations must be received by May 1, 1991. Employees and relatives of employees at Associated Newspapers are not eligible.

Dress for success with spring pizzazz

No longer is office fashion severe and boring.

Flash is back when it comes to dressing for success, especially during the warmer months ahead.

Women no longer need large shoulder pads and pin-striped suits to be accepted in the business world, according to local fashion experts.

Soft, feminine looks are attractive and can be professional-looking as well.

Keep the image clean, and don't overdue the makeup or show too much skin, fashion gurus say.

Suits for women featuring dressy shorts, rather than skirts, remain a favorite to the wearer and are professional enough for the office. Rayon, and rayon blends, are the favorite fabrics, and nautical colors are the preferred for the summer of 1991.

Skirt length varies from just above the knee to mid-calf. Ultraminis are not appropriate for the office.

For men, sweaters and slacks are appropriate summer wear in most offices, but relaxed suits are also popular.

Local business people showed off office fashions this week at the Five-Star Chamber of Commerce fashion show. Presented by the Canton Township, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Westland and Wayne chambers of commerce, the fashion show featured clothes and hair styles from local businesses.

This was the first time such an event was staged.

Sponsors included Eva's Fashions of Garden City, Studio One of Westland, Leo's Jewelry and Gifts of Wayne, Audette Office Equipment of Canton, and Don's Department Store of Dearborn.

Models were: Del Broquet of Garden City, Teresa Rueb of Canton, John Powell of Garden City, Tom Gerou of Canton, Sharon Norman of Westland, Joe Benyo of Westland, Jinny Darwish of Dearborn Heights, Angie Koper of Wayne, Donna McEachern of Wayne, Bill Garrett of Wayne and Debbie Eves of Garden City.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: It seems both of you are still getting used to one another as an anchor team. How long does it take to blend together?

JOE GLOVER: It depends on the team.

RICH FISHER: It depends on the people. I think a lot of times you'll hear management types say "give it a good year to see how people work together." I don't think that's necessarily true because Joe and I kind of jelled right from the beginning. It's not that I came from out of town. Joe and I have known each other for 10 years. So, it's not like we were bosom buddies, but we knew each other through the business.

ANP: Are you comfortable working with each other now? Do you help each other out?

RF: (Joe) cracks a joke, and I laugh at it whether it's funny or not. He tells me when I've had a particular good newscast, and I tell him when he's had a particular good newscast. I'm joking. You have to help each other. We're a team. If one of us is having a rough night, you kind of look to the other one to help you out a little bit.

ANP: You have the only male anchor team in the Detroit area right now. What audience would you say you appeal to most? Are you leaving out the black audience because both of you are white?

JG: We're not shooting for any specific segment of audience. We're shooting for the audience in general. I think we're probably past the point where you got to be two males or two females or a male and a female or a black and a white. I think probably we've moved into the next phase here. We weren't the first people in the country to do it. It's being done in half a dozen other markets and working well.

RF: I hope we're not leaving out a certain audience. I hope people aren't looking at us and saying, "Well, gee, there's two white men on the air, and I'm not going to watch." I hope that's not the case. There's certainly no concentrated effort to aim our newscast or our team to a certain segment. We hope everyone will watch. We don't want to alienate anybody. We want as many people to watch as possible no matter what color they are or how old they are.

ANP: Joe, Rich, how long have you been in the television reporting business?

JG: I've been in this business 35 years.

RF: Yeah, and he's only 39 and looks great. I started in August 1968.

ANP: Do either of you ever get tired of hearing the bad news all the time?

JG: Sure. All the time, but that's part of the job. So you struggle through it. And there's good news, too, it's not all bad news. On any given night, it's probably more good news than bad. You just have to not concentrate on the bad.

RF: It tends to get depressing. Some people have asked me what specific stories bother me, and I hate to see anything connected with children being hurt, killed, maimed, raped. Anything connected with children. That really, really bothers me a lot.

ANP: What do both of you do to relieve the stress of your day?

RF: Other than drinking a lot? That's a joke. Another joke.

JG: I play a lot of tennis. I study Spanish sometimes in my spare time. My vacations are spent in scuba places.

RF: In the summer, I play a lot of golf and play softball with the station team. To relax, sometimes I like to rent a movie and just turn off the lights and pull the shades. I enjoy that because it gets you away for a couple of hours. And I enjoy the children. I sing in the shower a lot.

ANP: Rich, why did you make the move from Channel 7 to Channel 2?

RF: I came here because there was a challenge here. It's no deep dark secret Channel 2 has been No. 3 in the ratings for a long time. But I was born in Detroit, and I remember when Channel 2 was the top station. There are some people here that I admired a lot. The president and general manager was very honest with me and the news director was honest with me

THE DYNAMA

STORY BY MARGO DEWEY

Creating a successful television anchor team appears to require similar working experiences.

Television station WJBK management has formed such an anchor team with Rich Fisher and Joe Glover at the helm. Each has a distinct news background in the Detroit area.

Glover is more of a deep thinker who chooses to ponder a question on the other hand, is frank and comfortable with saying what's on his mind.

Although Fisher and Glover have varied personalities and backgrounds, they are helping the community outside the station.

Since 1974, Glover has been dedicated to his work with the WJBK annual Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

Fisher has worked for a number of charities including the Juvenile Diabetes Association and American Cancer Society. He is a former member of the Genesee County and has been involved with St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

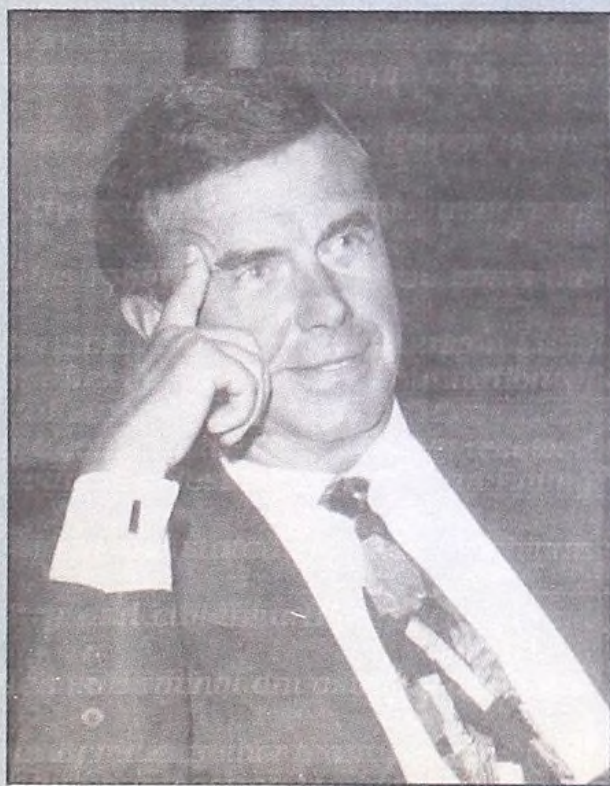

Both men have received awards for their reporting achievements. Both have received Emmys for his reporting excellence. In 1988, he was presented with an award for his report on skydiving.

In 1986, Fisher received a national award from the American Bar for his series on the jury system in Michigan.

A native of Detroit, Fisher resides in West Bloomfield with his wife, Stephanie.

Born in Wilmington, Del., and raised in Chelmsford, Mass., Glover is married to Tracey.

Fisher and Glover talk about their affect on the metropolitan area and how they came to Channel 2 WJBK and how they started in the business.

“We're not shooting for any segment of audience. We're shooting for the audience in general. I think we're probably past the point where you got to be two males or two females or a male and a female or a black and a white. I think probably we've moved into the next phase here. We weren't the first people in the country to do it. It's being done in half a dozen other markets and working well.”

about what direction they wanted to take the station. Quite frankly, I didn't expect it would really happen, but they got very serious about it, and so did I. So here I am.

ANP: Rich, the one commercial when you moved from Channel 7 to Channel 2, you said you finally can tell the truth through your stories that you couldn't do at Channel 7. Is that what you were really feeling at the time?

RF: No, not really. A lot of that stuff is for promotions. I'm not going to say anything bad about Channel 7. I still have a lot of good friends over there. I was employed at Channel 7 for a long time, and I'm not going to say anything bad about them.

ANP: Joe, why did you make the move in 1988 from Salinas, Calif?

JG: I had worked in Detroit so long before I went to California, and I made a lot of friends here. I like Detroit. The company that had bought the station in California after I went to work there bought this station, and they asked me to come back. So I jumped at the chance.

ANP: Do both of you monitor the ratings?

RF: No. I know when I first came, I was interested to see if there were any changes. Joe and I have talked about it. If you look at ratings on a day in and day out basis, which you can, it just adds extra pressure which you don't need. Occasionally, someone will say we've had a great night last night or the ratings were good. But as far as looking at the ratings on a day-to-day basis, I don't do that anymore. I just try to do the best job I possibly can every night. And I hope the people will switch and give us a chance.

JG: I never look at the ratings anymore. I hear what they are occasionally. But you can't drive yourself batty looking at the ratings all the time. You can do a great newscast, and the rating will be terrible. You can do a terrible newscast, and the rating will be great.

ANP: Could both of you tell us about your background and how you got started in the television news business?

RF: I actually wanted to be an attorney. Years ago, I was going to school here at Oakland Community College. I just got out of high school. I was working full time at the New Center Building. I was driving home with a buddy of mine who was a disc jockey back in the 60s, Lee Alan. I use to always listen to Lee. He came out one day with this commercial for a radio and television school at Roma Hall in Livonia. I said to my buddy, let's go talk to them. So we both went there. One day Lee called me and asked me if I wanted to work in a radio station in Alpena. I went and started making $2 an hour doing everything. I mean everything. I progressed from there. I went from there to Flint. A lot of it was luck being at the right place at the right time.

JG: I started in college, I needed tuition money. I took a job working all-night radio. Then, I got into television news in the army in Korea. I worked for television stations in Florida, California, Louisiana, North Carolina, New York and Michigan.

ANP: Joe, was there one state you preferred working in than another? Why?

JG: Michigan. There's so much character here. So many things are attractive about Michigan. The sports atmosphere here is tremendous. This area is such a great news area. There's never a day where you're struggling to come up for stories for a newscast. You're doing just the opposite, struggling to get everything in.

ANP: When you started out in the business, did either of you idolize someone in the business you wanted to model after? How about now?

RF: When I was growing up, I always liked Joe. Just kidding. For me, a variety of people now, Ted Koppel, Peter Jennings. I think they are just the best in their business. In this local market, however, I think we have some tremendous people here.

JG: My heroes were always the slop men, managing editor types. The type that doesn't exit anymore. They are all dead or retired. I guess the Lou Grant type.

“A lot of that stuff is for promotions. I'm not going to say anything bad about Channel 7. I still have a lot of good friends over there. I was employed at Channel 7 for a long time, and I'm not going to say anything bad about them.”

Things will look up financially speaking

Dear Elizabeth,

I read your column each week. What I would like to know is how you see the future for me and my family? And how things look financially for us. My birthday is March 4, 1962.

Thank you, W.

Dear W.,

Fortunately finances look better for you this year, however, it will be a very hard working year for you. Within the next four months, you will be hearing about a divorce in the family. Other than that, the cards around you and the family look very good. You are a very intelligent young lady. Quite compassionate and a real humanitarian. The world is a better place having some one like you in it.

Love, Elizabeth

Dear Elizabeth,

I love your column. I am so glad they finally put this kind of column in the paper. I am a female born Dec. 7, 1971 and the boy that I love was born Nov. 23, 1972. We grew up together and have been good friends for years and years. A couple of years ago, we had some difficulties and grew apart. We see each other once in a great while now, but of course it's not like before. I am wondering (hoping) if our paths will ever meet again and when and under what circumstances.

Thank you, love J.

Dear J,

From your chart comparisons it shows the two of you would be very compatible. It's no wonder the two of you have been good friends as well as dating off and on for a long time. What the cards are showing me is that you will be asking about two other fellas before the end of summer. One you will meet in May, the other in August. Also, that there is a female member of the family that does not necessarily want to see this relationship come about. You will do much traveling in life and may eventually live out of the state. Your boyfriend can be a bit of a couch potato sometimes. No doubt that would get on your nerves.

Love, Elizabeth

Dear Elizabeth,

My birthday is Sept. 4, 1951.

Lately I have been coming under fire, an abundance of pressure is on me and it feels like my right guard isn't working anymore. When do you see this tension lifting?

B.

Lucky to be a short distance away

The excitement of Chicago is something everyone should experience at least once in a lifetime.

For those of us fortunate enough to live just a daylong drive away, Chicago makes a great weekend getaway anytime of the year.

The Petrillo Band Shell in Grant Park will be the site of a series of concerts by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. The world-renowned orchestra will perform in the amphitheater under the stars four nights a week.

Playgoers can attend performances of Les Miserables this summer at the Auditorium Theater, and numerous art and photography exhibits will be displayed at the Art Institute.

Sports fans can see the White Sox in the new Comiskey Park or travel to Wrigley Field to cheer on the Cubs. A trip to Comiskey Park while the Tigers are in town can give fans a chance to cheer the visiting team.

The Gospel Festival introduces the festival season on June 8 and 9, followed by the world famous Blues Fest on June 14 to 16. Highlights of the ethnic and cultural events this summer are:

Touch of Italy, June 14-16.
Festival Polonaise, July 12-14.
Irish Festival, July 19-21.
Festa Italiana, Aug. 16-18.
Viva Chicago (Mexican), Sept. 7-8.
Among the special summer events are the Taste of Chicago, featuring ethnic culinary delights, the Fourth of July celebration, which begins with a July 3 fireworks spectacular, and Venetian Night on Aug. 9. The Labor Day weekend Jazz Fest, from Aug. 29 through Sept. 1, ends the summer events.

Visitors will also find bargain-priced air fares and weekend hotel packages available. For example, the Chicago Hilton and Towers, located close to Grant Park, museums and theater, has special spring and summer rates for couples, seniors and families.

Local chefs cook up tasty treats at Taster's Choice

Great beginnings were found last week at the Taster's Choice event staged by the Wayne-Westland chapter of Soroptimists.

Appetizers and hors d'oeuvres was the featured course at the Wayne Community Center as scores of local residents selected their favorites.

The event, the first ever, was a great success, according to Carolyn Archbold, an officer in the organization.

Drawings were staged throughout the event with prizes donated by local businesses.

Sponsors included: The Garden Patch, Alex's, Golden Boy, Jonathan's, Mexico Inn, McDonald's, Dunkin Donuts, B.J.'s, Omega, the Wayne-Westland Vocational-Technical Center, Charlie's Wayne Roadhouse, Leo's Jewelry and Gifts, Cobb's Pharmacy, Northside Hardware and Keller and Stein Florists.

Some of the favorite entries follow.

Broccoli-Cheese Squares
(Donna McEachern)
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 10-ounce packages frozen broccoli
3 eggs
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 pound (6 cups) cheddar cheese, grated
2 tablespoons onion, chopped
seasoned salt (optional)

When ready to bake, preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt butter in a 9-by 13-inch baking dish. Steam broccoli about 5 minutes, until tender. Using food processor, chop broccoli for several seconds, using off-on switch. Beat eggs well in large bowl. Add flour, milk, salt, baking powder and blend well. Stir in cheese, broccoli and onion. Spoon into pan, spreading evenly. Sprinkle top with seasoned salt and bake 30 to 35 minutes, until set. Let cool 5 minutes before cutting into bite-size pieces.

If freezing: cook first, freeze and defrost before reheating in microwave.

Pineapple Baked in Rum
(Donna McEachern)
1 pineapple, fresh
1-4 cup pancake syrup
1-4 cup brown sugar
4 tablespoons rum

Peel, slice and core pineapple. Arrange slices in baking dish. Cover with syrup, brown sugar and rum. Bake 30 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serve warm or cold.

Moon Cake
(Alice Toth)
1 cup butter
6 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 grated lemon rind
6 egg whites
1-2 cup ground walnuts

Cream together butter, egg yolks and sugar with electric mixer. Add flour, baking powder, lemon juice and rind. Beat egg white, and fold in to butter mixture. Put into a 9-by 13-inch greased pan. Sprinkle walnuts and a little sugar on dough. Bake 350 degrees for 30 minutes. When cool, cut into moon shapes using a glass or a cookie cutter.

Armenian Pinwheels
(Carolyn Archbold)
Lawash (Armenian bread)
mayonnaise
dry Italian dressing mix sliced ham
sliced cheese
tomato slices
lettuce

Heat bread and spread with mayonnaise. Sprinkle with dressing mix and cover with ham slices. Place cheese and tomato slices down middle of bread. Put lettuce down middle of bread as well. Roll tightly and wrap. Refrigerate overnight. Slice and serve.

Turkey Pate
(Doris Nall)
2 medium sweet red peppers
3 green onions, sliced
3 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 beaten egg
1-3 cup dry white wine
1 tablespoon vinegar
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1-8 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
1 pound ground raw turkey
1-2 pound ground pork
2 bay leaves

Quarter peppers lengthwise, remove seeds and membrane. Place peppers, skin side up, on the unheated rack of a broiler pan. Broil 4 inches from heat for 6 to 8 minutes or until charred. Immediately place in paper bag. Close bag tightly and let stand for 10 minutes. Peel peppers, set aside. Cook onion in margarine or butter until tender, but not brown. In a large bowl, combine eggs, wine, vinegar, salt, basil and thyme. Add onion mixture and ground meats and mix well. Press one-third of the turkey mixture into a greased 4-cup mold or foil-line 8-by 4-by 2-inch loaf pan. Arrange half of peppers on top of turkey mixture. Top with another one-third of turkey mixture and remaining pepper pieces. Lightly press on remaining turkey mixture. Top with bay leaves. Cover with foil. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 1 1-2 hours. Remove from the oven and drain off fat. Discard bay leaves. Carefully invert pate onto serving plate. Cover and chill overnight. To serve, slice thinly. Makes 12 servings.

Crescent Squares
(Doris Nall)
2 (8-ounce) cans Pillsbury Refrigerated Quick Crescent Dinner Rolls
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1-2 cup fruit-flavored low-fat yogurt
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
1-4 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups cut-up fresh fruit -- apples, bananas, kiwi, peaches, pears, oranges or strawberries

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Unroll dough into 4 long rectangles. Place crosswise in ungreased 15-by 10-by 1-inch baking dish. Press over bottom and one inch up sides to form crust. Firmly press perforations to seal. Bake at 375 degrees for 13 to 17 minutes or until golden brown. Cool completely. In a small bowl, combine cream cheese, yogurt, powdered sugar and cinnamon. Blend well. Spread evenly over cooled crust. Cover. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours. Just before serving, cut into squares. Top each square with a fresh piece of fruit. 60 appetizers.

2 cups spicy hot vegetable cocktail juice

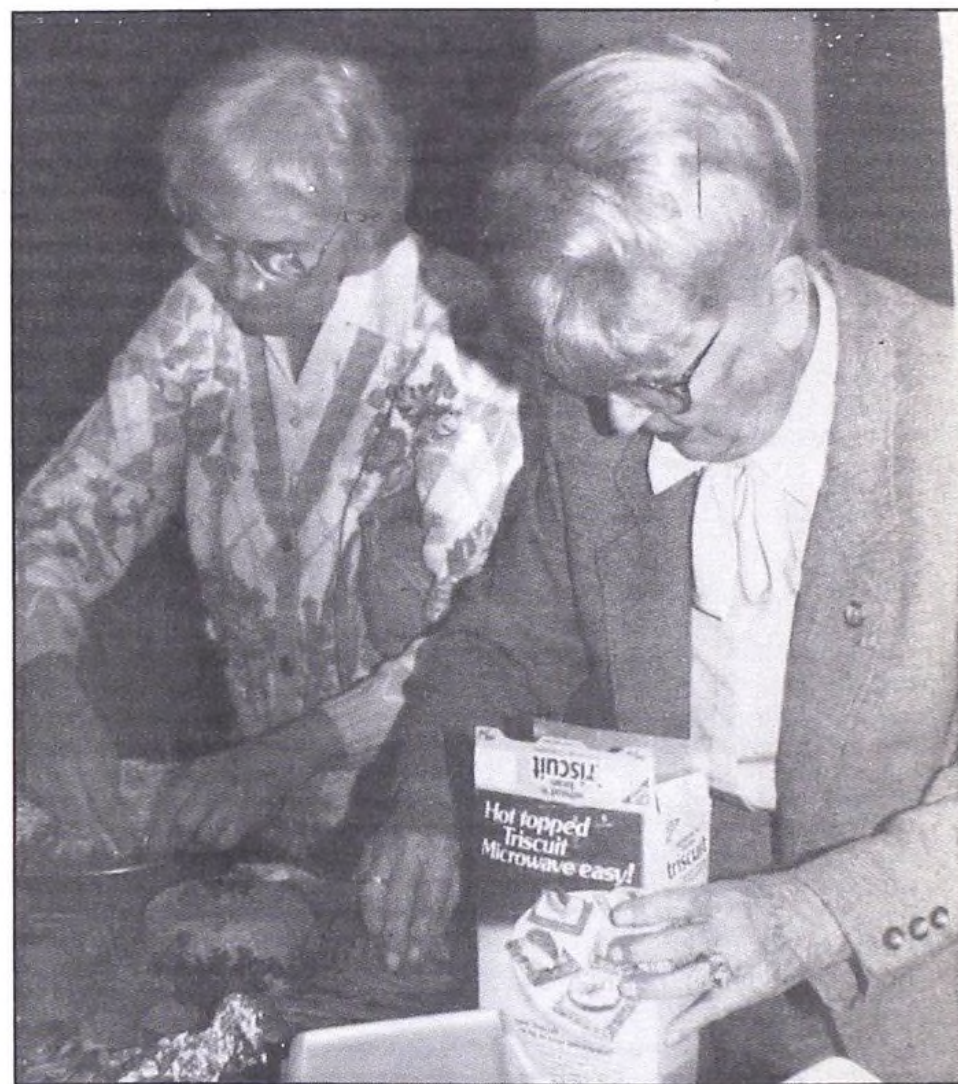

1 (12-ounce) can tomato paste
1 cup finely chopped carrots
1 cup finely chopped green bell peppers

1 cup finely chopped green onion

6 slices bacon, crisply cooked, crumbled

1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 drops hot pepper sauce

Lightly grease 1-quart mold. In medium saucepan, sprinkle gelatin over vegetable cocktail juice, let stand 5 minutes. Cook over low heat

Pasta Bites
(Doris Nall)
84 medium-sized uncooked shell macaroni

1 (9-ounce) package frozen chopped spinach, thawed, squeeze to drain

1-2 cup garlic and herbs Neufchatel cheese spread
1 (2-ounce) jar dice pimento, drained

Cook macaroni to desired doneness as directed on package. Drain, rinse with cold water. In medium bowl, combine remaining ingredients, blend well. Spoon about 1-2 teaspoonful spinach mixture into each cooked macaroni shell. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Garnish as desired. 84 appetizers.

Spicy Gazpacho Molded Spread
(Doris Nall)
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin until gelatin is dissolved, stirring constantly. Stir in remaining ingredients, blend well. Spoon into greased mold. Refrigerate at least 4 hours or until firm. To serve, unmold onto serving tray. Serve with crisp crackers, tortilla chips, celery strips.

Salmon Pinwheels
(Carolyn Archbold)
Loaf of unsliced, white bread
1 can salmon, boned and drained

8 ounces cream cheese
1 package dry Italian dressing
1 small grated onion

Remove crust from bread. Flatten with rolling pin. Mix salmon, cream cheese Italian dressing, onion and spread on bread. Roll bread like a jelly roll and refrigerate, slice and serve. Garnish with olives.

Hot day in Brambly Hedge

It's a very hot summer day in Brambly Hedge, the setting for Jill Barklem's "Summer Story." The heat was so unbearable that most of the mice residents stayed inside their cottages. When they ventured outside, they wandered down by the stream where it was cooler and they could angle their paws and tails in the refreshing water.

Along the banks of the stream was where the flour and dairy mills were located. Miss Poppy Eyebright was the supervisor of the Dairy Stump. She was also in charge of the many cheese kitchens. Poppy was frustrated with the hot weather. She had to take special care of her butter pats and cream pots.

After completing her day's work, Poppy would stroll out by the mill-wheel and enjoy the splashes of coll water.

Dusty Dogwood, a popular figure to Brambly Hedge, ran the flour mill as his father, grandfather and great-grandfather had before him. He earned his name, Dusty, because the nature of his work left him covered from head to toe with flour dust.

Dusty and Miss Poppy Eyebright eventually fall in love in Brambly Hedge. They become engaged, and Poppy goes about making plans for her wedding.

The wedding preparations are detailed in the book as the entire Brambly Hedge family chips in to help.

The ceremony takes place along the cool stream, and the reception party floats along on a raft.

The story is fun and exciting, and the illustrations are exquisite in this and other stories of Brambly Hedge.

Ginger's Corner is written by Ginger Bruder, owner of Miss Ginger's on Main Street and a former editor of children's books.
